Abstract of the Disclosure

The invention relates to a method of securing computer systems comprising at least one code interpretation module and memory capacity for storing the code to be interpreted. For said purpose, the invention consists in making more difficult attacks involving physical measures and/or requiring a synchronisation with the interpreted code, by introducing variants into the interpreted code runtimes and the measurable physical prints.